MANAGER'S COMMENT

During the month of August, the fund initiated two new positions. Netflix was added to the portfolio as the company has proven itself as the true base choice for TV streaming. Further, the price point at which Netflix sells today is very low given the breadth of the offering, leaving ample leeway to raise prices in the future. 2021 will also be the year where Netflix will break even on cash flow and thus no longer be dependent on external financing. All these factors, together with a lagging share price for 2021, make up for a compelling entry point.

The second position that was added to the portfolio is Clarivate PLC. This business used to be part of Thomson Reuters and has only been listed separately since 2019. Clarivate offers information services to c. 55,000 customers around the world, providing databases in the intellectual property and science markets. Clarivate did not receive the proper management attention as the smallest segment within Thomson Reuters and shows a lot of potential for improvement, both in terms of growth as well as profitability. The man to extract this potential is CEO Jerre Stead, who has been active in the industry for decades, amongst others as CEO of IHS Markit for 12 years, where his track record was highly impressive and the share price increased 10x.

Both positions have a small starting weight and will be monitored closely.

The value of an investment in a sub-fund increases or decreases over time. At the time of resale, the price of your shares may be less than the original price, representing a loss. If you invest in a sub-fund whose currency is different from your own, exchange rate fluctuations can also reduce your gains or increase your losses.

The above risk level is calculated on the basis of the sub-fund's volatility over the medium term (i.e. on the basis of actual changes in its value over the last five years or on a simulation, if the subfund was created within that period). The volatility of the sub-fund may increase or decrease over time, which may change its risk level.

The subfund's risk level reflects the following factor(s):

- Equity investments have greater volatility and higher risk than investments in bonds and money market instruments. The risk level does not reflect the potential impact of unusual market conditions or unforeseen events that may increase risk or trigger other risks such as:
 - Counterparty risk: the subfund can lose money as a result of the failure of a market player with which it does business.
 - Credit risk: risk associated with bonds becoming worthless when the issuer of the bond is not able to repay its debt on maturity.
 - Liquidity risk: some financial securities may be impossible to sell quickly at a given time or may have to be sold at a discount.
 - Management risk: under abnormal market conditions, the usual management techniques may be ineffective or unfavourable.
 - Operating risk: in any market, and especially in the emerging markets, the subfund may lose some or all of its money if there is a failure in the custody of assets or in case of fraud, corruption, political actions or any other adverse event.

⁵ Ongoing charge: charges taken from the subfund over a year (including management fees).
