FUND DESCRIPTION

MercLin Institutional Equity Fund DBI-RDT (subfund of MercLin Institutional Fund) meets the requirements imposed by the applicable regulations to benefit from the Definitely Taxed Income regime (DBI-RDT): the subfund distributes at least 90% of the received income, after deducting fees, commissions and charges. The company-shareholder can – as of income year 2018 – deduct 100% from the taxable basis of the income distributed by the sicav resulting from dividends or from capital gains on shares, which meet the requirements of the DBI-RDT deduction. The subfund follows the equity strategies of the MercLin Global Equity fund.

² It concerns annual (except YTD) performance numbers based on historical data and which are no guarantee of future results. YTD is a cumulative return over a period from the 1st of January of the current year till a given date (see above) in the current year.

³ MSCI AC World Euro Net dividend reinvested. The investment policy of the subfund does not include a tracking error objective with the benchmark. Performances of the subfund may therefore vary from the performance of the benchmark.

MANAGER'S COMMENT

During the month of September, the fund added a position in ASML. This Dutch company specializes in the development and manufacturing of lithography equipment used in the semiconductor industry. Through a network of highly specialized suppliers, ASML assembles what could be considered the most complex industrial tools ever produced. Inside a lithography machine, a series of high-precision mirrors guides a laser beam through a mask to print patterns as small as 10 nanometers onto the silicon wafer. These patterns will later form the integrated circuits that make up the chips. This process really is as complex as it sounds. In fact, it's so complex that competitors have given up on matching ASML's offer, making the company a quasi-monopolist. Naturally, this puts the company in a very privileged position. A single EUV machine easily costs more than 150m USD, with the next generation of High NA EUV costing twice that much. However, this steep price tag does not dissuade customers like TSMC, as lithography tools are considered the most important part of their 20 billion USD fabs. This has led some to dubbing ASML 'the toll booth to digitalization'. The company also has the financial history to match this flattering title: sales roughly doubled over the past 5 years, while also increasing the gross margin from 46% to over 50%. This trend is expected to continue – be it in a less steep fashion – thanks to increasing digitization & electrification, growing complexity of semiconductor technology and the elaborate chip reshoring plans of Western governments. This is an example of the application of the investment policy. Portfolio changes can occur at any time.

RISK INDICATOR

⚠ The risk indicator assumes that you keep the product 5 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in before maturity and you may get back less.

The summary risk indicator is a guideline for the risk level of this product compared to other products. The indicator shows the likelihood of investors incurring losses on the product due to market developments or due to lack of funds for payment.

We have classified this product in class 4 out of 7; which is a medium risk class. This means that potential losses on future performance are estimated to be moderate.

Due to the effects of unusual market conditions, other risks may arise. Please refer to the prospectus for more information.

As this product is not protected against future market performance, you may lose all or part of your investment.

Consult the information document of the UCI before investing. The information document and the periodic reports are available in English, free of charge from the financial agent: KBC Bank S.A., Havenlaan 2, B-1080 Brussels. Every investor took note of the information document and any subscription should be made on the basis of this document.
